

ABSTRACT

The invention provides a composition for topical, oral administration for prevention and treatment of oral disease, comprising an active agent containing at least 70% by weight monoterpenes with three unsaturations as active agent therein, in combination with a suitable carrier.